JAPANESE SUFFER LOSS!

Gen. Stoessel's Official Report of Recent Fight

HAS REACHED CHEFOO

He Issues Proclamation--It Refers to Battle Which Began on September 19 and Lasted Until the 22nd

TERRIBLE ARTILLERY CONFLICTS.

Small outpost fighting constitutes the sum of the activities reported from the vicinity of Mukden. The Japanese blockade of Port Arthur is so effective that Gen. Stoessel has been unable to inform the war office at St. Petersburg of the situation there. The report of the arrival of the Russian armored cruiser Bayan, of the Port Arthur squadron, at Hanchau bay, near Shanghai, is a hoax.

GENERAL STOESSEL JUBILANT.

Chefoo, China, October 3.—An official report from Gen. Stoessel, dated Sept. 26, reached Chefoo today, confirming a report of the repulse of the Japanese attack on Port Arthur on Sept. 22. The fighting was of an extremely severe character. The Japanese having retired, Gen. Stoessel issued the following proclamation:

"Glory! Thanks to God! Glory to our heroic garrison! Glory to Ilkman! Sychaff and Poggorsgy, heroes all! Thanks to our valiant volunteers who routed the enemy from the trenches, destroying them! God has permitted us to repulse the enemy. Praise to God."

The volunteer's referred to by Gen. Stoessel in the proclamation were made up of regulars called upon to take a high hill which had been captured by the Japanese.

From semi official sources it is learned that the attack began on the 19th along the whole line and lasted four days, various positions changing hands many times.

The high hill mentioned was a very important position to the Russians. The Japanese attacked repeatedly, day and night, finally occupying the position on the night of September 22 after suffering severe losses. The attempt to retake this hill being extremely hazardous. Gen. Stosssel refused to issue the order, but called for volunteers. Everybody called upon responded whereupon a requisite number of men was selected. Lieut. Poggorsky and Capt. Sychaff leading them. Soldiers and officers alike carried grenades (explosive shells weighing from six to eight pounds thrown by hand) and with these they attacked the Japanese temporary fortifications and drove the latter from all of their positions. Several mines were exploded during the general battle, causing severe losses. The Russians estimate that the total Japanese losses for the four days' fighting reached 20,000 men.

DEADLY ARTILLERY DUELS.

London, Oct. 4.—The daily Telegraph's Nagasaki correspondent, cabling under date of Sept. 25, says:

"Terrible artillery conflicts are adding to the horrors of the situation at Port Arthur. On September 22 and 23, the Russians made sorties against positions held by the Kanagawa regiment and desperate fighting ensued. The Japanese force was practically annihilated, only one non-commissioned officer and eleven men remaining alive out of the 4,000 who went into the engagement.

"The Japanese tunnel into Port Arthur was completed on Sept. 24, and was immediately used. The result is unknown."

Field Marshall Oyama has begun the long expected advance upon the Russian army at Mukden, and a coincident movement against Sinmintin is indicated by the fact that the Japanese have occupied Siaobeyho, west of the Liao river. There is a concentration of Japanese forces in the vicinity of Yentai mines, and the advance lines are being gradually pushed eastward. General Sakharoff, in the dispatches to the war office at St. Petersburg, reports successes in several engagements of a minor character.

An undated dispatch from Gen. Kuroki's headquarters reports the present Japanese military organization to be as efficient as it has been at any time since the war began. There is no definite news from Port Arthur. Change in the Russian ministry of marine and in naval commands are announced on high authority. The new head of the admiralty, it is said, will be Vice Admiral Doubaroff, an officer of wide experience in war and the present head of the technical bureau of the ministry of marine.

Mukden, Sept. 30.—A great change in the situation here has occurred. The Japanese now appear anxious to act on the defensive and have fortified a position northwest of Yentai mines.

According to the best estimates obtainable the Japanese army confronting Gen. Kuropatkin comprises a grand total of 180 battalions. Allowing 800 men to a batalion, there are 144,000 infantry. In addition, there are 6,300 cavalry and 638 guns. The distribution of the Japanese forces is as follows:

One division at Bentsiantze, two divisions at the Yentai mines, four divisions on the railway, a little north of Liao Yang, one division westward near Hiameadensz, and one division at Sandepu.

Russia estimates the Japanese forces at the following strength:

Gen. Kuroki, with the guards and the Second and Twelfth divisions, a total of thirty-six battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry, 108 guns and a separate artillery corps of 108 guns; the guards reserve brigade, consisting of eight battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry and twenty-four guns, and the reserve brigades of thirty-two battalions of infantry and thirty-six guns, total of Kuroki's army, seventy-six battalions of infantry, 18 squadrons of cavalry and 276 guns. General Oku's army consists of the Third, Fourth and Sixth divisions, of thirty-six battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons, a separate artillery brigade of 108 guns, and reserve brigades comprising twenty-four battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry and twenty-six guns; total strength of Oku's army, sixty battalions of infantry, twenty-six squadrons of cavalry and 242 guns. Gen Nodzu commands the Fifth and Tenth divisions, consisting of twenty-six battalions of infantry and six squadrons of cavalry. Including reserves, Nodzu's army consists of forty-four battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry and 120 guns.

Hon. James Kerr Refuses Nomination for State Senate.

Clearfield, Pa. Oct. 4.—There is consternation in the Democratic camp since the receipt of a cablegram from James Kerr, who is now in England on a business trip, stating that under no conditions will he accept the Democratic State Senatorial nomination in the Clearfield-Centre-Clinton District, which was conferred upon him a week ago last Saturday.

Kerr had sailed for England some days before the conferees met, but his Clearfield county followers were certain that he would accept the nomination. His ability as a campaigner made him the strongest possible candidate against Colonel E. A. Irvin, the Republican nominee.

The news received from London Saturday afternoon has muddled the Democratic situation greatly, and as yet there are no predictions as to the future course of the party. Ex-State Senator Heinle, of Bellefonte, can have the nomination if he wants it. He was a candidate for the place, but withdrew when Clearfield county presented the name of Kerr.

The reason for Mr. Kerr's declination is that the stress of business affairs, particularly abroad, would give him no time to devote to campaigning. He intends being abroad for some weeks, and may not reach home until election time.

Although the time for filing nomination certificates has expired, the vacancy on the ticket can be filled by substitution.

Green—Dillen Hearing Continued.

The argument and hearing of testimony on the application of a new trial in the Green—Dillen murder case which was to have taken place Tuesday morning was continued until October 18th on account of not having the testimony completed.

A $75,000 FIRE AT WATSONTOWN

The Door and Sash Company Plant In Ashes.

THE LOSS WAS HEAVY.

Is Largely Covered by Insurance But Many Men are Thrown Out of Employment.

FIRE CAUGHT FROM ENGINE SPARKS.

Watsontown was visited by a most disastrous fire and suffered a great loss Saturday afternoon in the burning of the plant of the Watsontown Door and Sash, company, owned principally by the Messrs. Jacob and Frank Wagner. The plant was comparatively new, being erected early in the year 1900, and at this time was enjoying much prosperity, running five nights in the week until nine o'clock. The entire plant, including the mill, lumber sheds, yard, warerooms and office, and a number of tenements owned by the firm, were entirely consumed.

FIRE BREAST WORK 200 FEET LONG

It is stated that the fire originated from sparks thrown on the roof of the large shed by a passing locomotive on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the roof of which was of shingles, and the wind blowing a perfect gale at the time, the firemen, although quickly responding, were unable to do effective work. In less than ten minutes there was a complete breastwork of fire three hundred feet long, leaping like a thousand dewfons and pouring a great flood of sparks and smoke over the entire eastern portion of the town.

THE LOSS IS $75,000

Liberty street, to the east, was in great danger, and a number of buildings were quickly fired but cool heads were at hand there and quickly extinguished the flames and the fire was confined to the starting point. The loss is upwards of $75,000, and is largely covered by insurance. Many men are thrown out of employment, and in a number of instances are losers of valuable sets of tools.

AID FROM MILTON.

By reason of the high wind Chief Burgess D. Frank Wagner deemed it important that the town have outside aid, and the Chief Burgess of Milton was asked to send assistance. He quickly responded by sending his department with steamer and hose carriage, and the Miltonians rendered valuable service. While it was very early to speak of the future of the firm by any authority, it is safe to say they will be found in business again in the very near future. That the mill will be rebuilt is the promise to their friends, and they are legion.

An Appeal to the Public from the Salvation Army.

Owing to the winter coming on with extra expenses and the illness of Lieut. Crandall the Salvation Army Corp here find it necessary to raise a hundred dollars within the next two weeks. In order to do this and to help along the local work they are going to make a house to house canvass in the town for subscriptions. They have not asked the people to contribute anything for some time and have been doing an excellent local work. They have had forty conversions since the present officers came here. If they can raise this amount the work can go on without interruption.

For the good they have done in Bellefonte in the past they certainly deserve all the encouragement possible and we hope their appeal may meet with a hearty and generous reponse.

U. B. Conference Appointments.

The following is a partial list of appointments for the United Brethren church, east district, made at the annual conference: J. J. L. Ressler, presiding elder; Altoona, First church, G. L. Graham; Second church, S. S. Hough; Bellefonte, A. Davidson; Bellwood, May Whitehead; Bigler, W. R. Dillon; Clearfield, R. L. Erhard; DuBois, J. S. Hayes; Mahaffey, O. T. Stewart; Philipsburg, Robert Head; Port Matilda, D. H. Free; Tyrone, T. P. Cowling; Woodland, R. Jamison.

DEATH OF SAMUEL LEWIN.

A Once Prominent Bellefonte Business Man Dies at Philadelphia.

Samuel Lewin, a former prominent business man of this place, but late residing in Philadelphia, died at his home in that place Friday at 6 o'clock. Mr. Lewin had been suffering with stomach trouble for several years and it was on that account that he retired from active business here and went to Philadelphia to rest and try and regain his health. This and other complications are given as the cause of death.

The deceased was born in Sarbrucken, Germany, about sixty years ago and when about nineteen years of age he emigrated to this country. For a number of years he clerked for Goldsmith's large clothing store in Harrisburg.

Along in the early 80's Mr. Lewin came to Bellefonte and engaged in the clothing business becoming one of the leading business men of the town. He was quite popular and had a large number of warm friends who will learn with sincere regret of his death.

He was married to Miss Helen Oberndorf, of Baltimore, Md., who survives him with their two children, Louis and Miriam.

The interment was made in Baltimore on Sunday.

Sudden Death of Isaac Shafer.

Isaac Shafer, one of the oldest residents of Lock Haven, died at his home in that city at 5 o'clock on Wednesday morning. He was 82 years old last January and his death was sudden and unlooked for. He was engaged in the lumber business and was widely known.

The Lock Haven Express gives the following sketch of Mr. Shafer's life:

Isaac Shafer was born at Bellefonte, Pa., on the 22d of January, 1822, being the son of Philip and Mary Shafer. He started in the burning of charcoal at the age of 12 and had little opportunity of attending school in those days. After working on the West Branch canal for a couple of years and five years on a farm, he located at Farrandsville, this county, where he began lumbering and continued in this business with little exception until he retired from active duties several years ago. He cleared the timber from Lick run and in 1849-50 floated the logs down the stream, the first work of the kind ever performed there.

In 1893 he was elected a county commissioner on the Republican ticket by a very flattering vote. He was a prudent business man and honorable in his dealings with his fellowmen.

In 1846 he married Miss Sarah Proctor, daughter of Thomas Proctor, and they had five children. Of these three survive, Perry, Dollie and John F. The daughter is the wife of E. O. Aldrich of St. Mary's and John is at Johnsonburg; Perry of this city, but employed at Patton. The mother of these died in October 1890. In 1892 he married Mrs. Fredericka Kintzing, who has been in ill health for several months and is with her daughter at Hanover. Deceased is also survived by a brother, Reuben Shafer of Flemington.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions were adopted by the classmates at State College, of John Henry Barnett, of Kane, the young student who died in the Bellefonte Hospital of appendicitis.

DEATH OF JOHN BARNETT.

Died at the Bellefonte Hospital Friday Morning.

Friday morning at 3 o'clock the spirit of John Barnett crossed beyond the bar into eternity. This is a very sad death indeed. The young man was a Sophmore at State College and was held in the highest esteem by all the students. On Monday he was taken ill and on Wednesday brought to the Bellefonte Hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. His brother Arthur who is also a student at the College accompanied his brother to the hospital, and his father reached his bedside on Thursday morning. The operation was a success, but the young man's heart was very weak and could not stand the strain. He was perfectly conscious until the end came. Mr. Barnett, the young man's father speaks in the highest terms of the treatment his son received at the hands of the corps of nurses and the doctors at the hospital.

John H. Barnett was the son of Mr. and Mrs Henry J. Barnett, of Kane, Pa. He was 20 years of age. He leaves to mourn his death, his parents, one brother and two sisters, Arthur, a student at the College, Florence and Clara at home. The body was taken to H. P. Harris' undertaking establishment on Howard street where it was prepared for burial and taken to Kane Friday on the 1:25 p. m. train.

Mrs. John A. Crawford.

Mrs. Sarah A. Crawford, wife of John A. Crawford, died at the Mercy Hospital Pittsburg Friday afternoon from malignant growth of the kidney. She was aged 54 years, 2 months and 25 days. She was born at Spruce Creek and was the daughter of Joel and Catherine Louder.

Besides her husband, the three Misses Crawford, at the family home, together with their brother, of Pittsburg, the deceased is survived by five brothers and one sister, namely: Jonas Louder, of Barree; John Louder, at the old homestead at Union Furnace; Daniel Louder, of Oak Hall, Centre county; George and David Louder, of Pittsburg, and Mrs. S. H. Rothrock, of Reedsville, Mifflin county.

The funeral occufred Monday afternoon. Interment at Arch Spring.

Philipsburg Couple Wed.

The Tyrone Herald of Friday notes the marriage of two well known young Philipsburgers, Frederick C. Mattern and Miss Jennie Bowan, which took place at the M. E. parsonage in that place on Wednesday evening, the happy couple leaving immediately after on a wedding tour to eastern cities. The groom is an electrician, in the employ of the Philipsburg Electric Light Co., and is a very popular young man. His bride is one of Philipsburg's most highly esteemed young ladies. On their return from their wedding trip they will go to housekeeping, continuing to make Philipsburg their home. We join in wishing them a happy future.

Five Generations in One Carriage

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Jackson have returned from a pleasant visit with Nittany valley relatives. Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Frank Crepe, wife and son drove to Madisonburg to see B. F. Jackson and had a fine drive and a delightful time. On the return drive Sunday evening in one carriage five generations were represented.—Lock Haven Express.

ber action when the memory of this shot was recalled to her.

"Your horror seems to lie in the direction of the noise they make," continued her inexorable interlocutor. "One would say you had heard this pistol discharged."

Instantly a complete breaking up of her hitherto well maintained composure altered her whole aspect, and she vehemently cried:

"I did, I did! I was on Waverley avenue that night, and I heard the shot which in all probability ended my sister's life. I walked farther than I intended. I strolled into the street which had such bitter memories for us, and I heard—no, I was not in search of my sister. I had not associated my sister's going out with any intention of visiting this house. I was merely troubled in mind and anxious and—and"—

"And so under a similar impulse you, as well as Mr. Jeffrey, chose this uncanny place to ramble in. To all appearance that old hearth acted much more like a loadstone upon members of your family than you were willing at one time to acknowledge."

"You say 'ramble through.' Do you for a moment think that I entered that old house?"

"Miss Tuttle," was the grave, almost sad, reply, "did you not know that in some earth, dropped from a flowerpot overturned at the time when a hundred guests flew in terror from this house, there is to be seen the mark of a footstep—a footstep which you are at liberty to measure with your own?"

"Ah!" she murmured, her hands going up to her face.

But in another moment she had dropped them and looked directly at the coroner.

"I walked there—I never said that I did not walk there—when I went later to see my sister and in sight of a number of detectives passed straight through the halls and into the library."

"And that this footstep," inexorably proceeded the coroner, "is not in a line with the main thoroughfare extending from the front to the back of the house, but turned inward toward the wall, as if she who made it had stopped to lean her head against the partition?"

Miss Tuttle's head drooped.

"If I went into the house," she said, "it was not to enter that room. I had too great a dread of it. If I rested my head against the wall it was in terror of that shot. It came so suddenly and was so frightful, so much more frightful than anything you can conceive."

"Then you did enter the house?"

"I did."

"And it was while you were inside, instead of outside, that you heard the shot?"

"I must admit that too. I was at the library door."

"You acknowledge that?"

"I do."

"But you did not enter the library?"

"No, not then; not till I was taken back by the officer who told me of my sister's death."

"We are glad to hear this precise statement from you. It encourages me to ask again the nature of the freak which took you into this house. You say that it was not from any dread on your sister's account. What, then, was it? No evasive answer will satisfy us, Miss Tuttle."

"I cannot answer," she said.

"We will not oblige you to," said the coroner.

"However," he now went on with suddenly assumed severity, "you may answer this: Was the house dark or light when you entered it? And how did you get in?"

"The house was dark, and I got in through the front door, which I found ajar."

"You are more courageous than most women! I fear there are few of your sex who could be induced to enter it in broad daylight and under every suitable protection."

She raised her figure proudly.

"Miss Tuttle, you have heard Chloe say that you were in the kitchen of Mr. Jeffrey's house when the grocer boy delivered the candles which had been left by your brother-in-law on the counter of the store where he bought them. Is this true?"

"Yes, sir, it is true."

"Did you see those candles?"

"No, sir."

"You did not see them?"

"No, sir."

"Yet you went over to the table?"

"Yes, sir, but I did not meddle with the packages. I had really no business with them."

The coroner, surveying her sadly, went quickly on, as if anxious to terminate this painful examination.

"You have not told us what you did when you heard that pistol shot."

"I ran away as soon as I could move; I ran madly from the house."

"Where?"

"Home."

"But it was half past 10 when you got home."

"Was it?"

"It was half past 10 when the man came to tell you of your sister's death."

"It may have been."

"Your sister is supposed to have died in a few minutes. Where were you in the interim?"

"God knows. I do not."

A wild look was creeping into her face, and her figure was swaying, but she soon steadied it. I have never seen a more admirable presence maintained in the face of a dreadful humiliation.

"Perhaps I can help you," rejoined the coroner not unkindly. "Were you not in the Congressional library looking up at the lunettes and gorgeously painted walls?"

"I?" Her eyes opened wide in wondering doubt. "If I was I did not know it. I have no remembrance of it."

"Your condition of mind and that of Mr. Jeffrey seem to have been strangely alike," remarked the coroner.

"No, no!" she protested.

"Arguing a like source."

"No, no," she cried again, this time with positive agony. Then, with an effort which awakened respect for her powers of mind, if for nothing else, she desperately added: "I cannot say what was in his heart that night, but I know what was in mine—dread of that old house, to which I had been drawn in spite of myself, possibly by the force of the tragedy going on inside it, culminating in a delirium of terror which sent me flying in an opposite direction from my home and into places I had been accustomed to visit when my heart was light and untroubled."

"Another question, Miss Tuttle. When you heard a pistol shot sounding from the depths of that dark library, what did you think it meant?"

Miss Tuttle sees the pistol

"Something dreadful; something superstitious. It was night, you remember, and at night one has such horrible thoughts."

"Yet an hour or two later you declared that the hearth was no loadstone. You forgot its horrors and your superstition upon returning to your own house."

"It might be," she murmured, "but, if so, they soon returned. I had reason for my horror, if not for my superstition, as the event showed."

The coroner did not attempt to controvert this. He was about to launch a final inquiry.

"Miss Tuttle, upon the return of yourself and Mr. Jeffrey to your home after your final visit to the Moore house, did you have any interview that was without witnesses?"

"No."

"Did you exchange any words?"

"I think we did exchange some words; it would be only natural."

"Are you willing to state what words?"

She looked dazed and appeared to search her memory.

"I don't think I can," she objected.

"But something was said by you and some answer was made by him?"

"I believe so."

"Cannot you say definitely?"

"We did speak."

"In English?"

"No, in French."

"Cannot you translate that French for us?"

"Pardon me, sir; it was so long ago my memory fails me."

"Is it any better for the second and longer interview between you the next day?"

"No—sir."

"You cannot give us any phrase or word that was uttered there?"

"No."

"Is this your final reply on this subject?"

"It is."

Simultaneously with her withdrawal the gleam of sensibility left the faces of the jury, and the dark and brooding look which had marked their countenances from the beginning returned, and returned to stay.

The celerity with which that jury arrived at its verdict was a shock to us all. It had been a quiet body, offering but little assistance to the coroner in his questioning, but when it fell to these men to act, the precision with which they did so was astonishing. In a half hour they returned from the room into which they had adjourned, and the foreman gave warning that he was prepared to render a verdict.

Mr. Jeffrey and Miss Tuttle both clinched their hands; then Miss Tuttle pulled down her veil.

"We find," said the solemn foreman, "that Veronica Moore Jeffrey, who on the night of May 11 was discovered lying dead on the floor of her own unoccupied house in Waverley avenue, came to her death by means of a bullet, shot from a pistol connected to her wrist by a length of white satin ribbon.

"That the first conclusion of suicide is not fully sustained by the facts.

"And that attempt should be made to identify the hand that fired this pistol."

It was as near an accusation of Miss Tuttle as was possible without mentioning her name. A groan passed through the assemblage, and Mr. Jeffrey, bounding to his feet, showed an inclination to shout aloud in his violent indignation, but Miss Tuttle, turning toward him, lifted her hand with a commanding gesture and held it so till he sat down again.

It was both a majestic and an utterly incomprehensible movement on her part, giving to the close of these remarkable proceedings a dramatic climax which set all hearts beating and, I am bound to say, all tongues wagging till the room cleared.

CHAPTER XVI.

MEANWHILE, and before any of us had left this room, one fact had become apparent—Mr. Jeffrey was not going to volunteer any fresh statement in face of the distinct disapproval of his sister-in-law. As his eye fell upon the district attorney, who had lingered near, possibly in the hope of getting something more from this depressed and almost insensible man, he made one remark, but it was an automatic one, calculated to produce but little effect on the discriminating ears of this experienced official.

"I do not believe that my wife was murdered." This was what he said. "It was a wicked verdict. My wife killed herself. Wasn't the pistol found tied to her?"

Meanwhile a fact which all had noted and commented on had recurred to my mind and caused me to ask a brother officer who was walking out beside me what he thought of Mr. Moore's absence from an inquiry presumably of such importance to all members of his family.

The fellow laughed and said:

"Old Dave has lost none of his peculiarities in walking into his fortune. This is his day at the cemetery. Didn't you know that? He will let nothing on earth get in the way of his pilgrimage to that spot on the 23d of May, much less so trivial an occurrence as an inquest over the remains of his nearest relative."

I felt my gorge rise; then a thought struck me and I asked how long the old gentleman kept up his watch.

"From sunrise to sundown, the boys say. I never saw him there myself. My beat lies in an opposite direction."

I left him and started for Rock Creek cemetery. There were two good hours yet before sundown and I resolved to come upon Uncle David at his post.

It took just one hour and a quarter to get there by the most direct route I could take, five minutes more to penetrate the grounds to where a superb vehicle stood, drawn by two of the finest horses I had seen in Washington for many a long day. As I was making my way around this equipage I came upon a plot in a condition of upheaval preparatory to new sodding and the planting of several choice shrubs. In the midst of the sand thus exposed a single headstone rose. On his knees beside this simple monument I saw the figure of Uncle David, dressed in his finest clothes and showing in his oddly contorted face the satisfaction of great prosperity battling with the dissatisfaction of knowing that one he had so loved had not lived to share his elevation. He was rubbing away the mold from the name which, by his own confession, was the only one to which his memory clung in sympathy or endearment. At his feet lay an open basket, in which I detected the remains of what must have been a rather sumptuous cold repast. To all appearance he had foregone none of his ancient customs; only those customs had taken on elegance with his rise in fortune. The carriage and the horses and, most of all, the imperturbable driver seemed to awaken some awe in the boys. They were still in evidence, but they hung back sheepishly and eyed the basket of neglected food as if they hoped he would forget to take it away. Meanwhile the clattering of chains against the harness, the pawing of the horses and the low exclamations of the driver caused me the queerest feelings. Advancing quite unceremoniously upon the watcher by the grave, I remarked aloud:

"The setting sun will soon release you, Mr. Moore. Are you going immediately into town?"

He paused in his rubbing, which was being done with a very tender hand, and as if he really loved the name he was endeavoring to bring into plainer view. Scowling a little, he turned and met me point blank with a look which had a good deal of inquiry in it.

"I am not usually interrupted here," he emphasized—"except by the boys," he added more mildly. "They sometimes approach too closely, but I am used to the imps and scarcely notice them. Ah, there are some of my old friends now! Well, it is time they knew that a change has taken place in my fortunes. Hi, there! Hands up and catch this and this and this!" he shouted. "But keep quiet about it, or next year you will get pennies again."

And, flinging quarters right and left, he smiled in such a pompous, self satisfied way at the hurrah and scramble which ensued, that it was well worth my journey there just to see this exhibition of combined vanity and good humor.

"Now go!" he vociferated; and the urchins, black and white, flew away, flinging up their heels in delight and shouting: "Bully for you, Uncle David! We'll come again next year, not for twenty-fives, but fifties."

"I will make it dollars if I only live so long," he muttered. And deigning now to remember the question I had put to him, he grandly remarked:

"I am going straight into town. Can I do anything for you?"

"Nothing. I thought you might like to know what awaits you there. The city is greatly stirred up. The coroner's jury in the Jeffrey-Moore case has just brought in a verdict to the effect that suicide has not been proved. Naturally, this is equivalent to one of murder."

"Ah!" he ejaculated, slightly taken aback for one so invariably impassive.

"And to whom is the guilt of this crime ascribed?" he presently ventured.

"There was mention of no name, but the opprobrium naturally falls on Miss Tuttle."

"Miss Tuttle? Ah!"

"Since Mr. Jeffrey is proved to have been too far away at the time to have fired that shot, while she"—

"I am following you"—

"Was in the very house—at the door of the library in fact—and heard the pistol discharged, if she did not discharge it herself—which some believe, notably the district attorney. You should have been there, Mr. Moore."

He looked surprised at this suggestion.

"I never am anywhere but here on the 23d of May," he declared.

"Miss Tuttle needed some adviser."

"Ah, probably."

"You would have been a good one."

"And a welcome one, eh?"

I hardly thought he would have been a welcome one, but I did not admit the fact. Nevertheless he seized on the advantage he evidently thought he had gained and added, mildly enough, or, rather, without any display of feeling:

"Miss Tuttle likes me even less than Veronica did. I do not think she would have accepted, certainly she would not have desired, my presence in her counsels. But of one thing I wish her to be assured, her and the world in general. Any money she may need at this—at this unhappy crisis in her life, she will find amply supplied. She has no claims on me, but that makes little difference where the family honor is concerned. Her mother's husband was my brother—the girl shall have all she needs. I will write her so."

He was moving toward his carriage.

"Fine turnout?" he interrogatively remarked.

I assented with all the surprise—with all the wonder even—which his sublime egotism seemed to invite.

"It is the best that Downey could raise in the time I allotted him. When I really finger the money, we shall see, we shall see."

His foot was on the carriage step. He looked up at the west. The sun was almost down, but not quite. "Have you any special business with me?" he asked, lingering with what I thought a surprising display of consciousness till the last ray of the sunlight had disappeared.

I glanced up at the coachman sitting on his box as rigid as any stone.

"You may speak," said he; "Cæsar neither hears nor sees anything but his horses when he drives me."

The black did not wink. He was as completely at home on the box and as quiet and composed in his service as if he had driven this man for years.

"He understands his duty," finished the master, but with no outward appearance of pride. "What have you to say to me?"

I hesitated no longer.

"Miss Tuttle is supposed to have secretly entered the Moore house on the night you summoned us. She even says she did. I know that you have sworn to having seen no one go into that house, but notwithstanding this, haven't you some means at your disposal for proving to the police and to the world at large that she never fired that fatal shot? Public opinion is so cruel. She will be ruined, whether innocent or guilty, unless it can be very plainly shown that she did not enter the library prior to going there with

RESOLUTIONS OF CONFIDENCE AND RESPECT.

Passed by Washington Grange, Centre County, Pa., Regarding the Pennsylvania Agricultural Exhibit at St. Louis, and the Persons Preparing the Same.

WHEREAS, Certain scandalous reports have been circulated, especially by sensational papers, unjustly charging fraud and incompetency in regard to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Exhibit at St. Louis, and attempting to slander and ridicule the good Governor of our Commonwealth and other unimpeachable persons, especially our neighboring citizen, fellow farmer and acquaintance, Col. John A. Woodward, of this county; and

WHEREAS, The investigations made by our members reveal the following facts in regard to the charges made:

1. That all farmers in Pennsylvania were given an opportunity to contribute to this display, both by personal invitations and by newspaper announcements.

2. That the members of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, commonly known as the Grange, were especially asked to contribute their produce for this Exhibit by 600 circulars and personal letters sent directly to the officers of as many Subordinate Granges in different parts of this State, by the co-operation of Col. Woodward with State Master W. F. Hill.

3. That a few seeds, which were particularly needed to complete a special design, being of kinds grown on Pennsylvanian soil but could not be procured from the farmers of this State by the invitations that were sent out for them, were purchased at St. Louis at but little cost and marked "unknown" as to origin, in the Exhibit, instead of "Pennsylvania Products," as is alleged.

4. That the proprietary articles, or prepared food stuffs, beverages, etc., in the Exhibit were appropriately used for the purpose of showing what can be done with Pennsylvania's soil products or "raw material," without regard to the State in which they were given their final form; and as these were not shown in original packages, and as this was not a Pennsylvania Manufacturer's Exhibit, we find nothing culpable in this use of the proprietary food stuffs, etc., for the purpose intended and by the methods adopted.

5. That fruits, poultry, live-stock, dairy products, etc., were shown in their respective Departments, and not in this purely Agricultural Exhibit. Since these were at no time included in the plans of the Commission's Agricultural Exhibit, we find that our esteemed and worthy fellow farmer and citizen was in no way responsible for them at any time, and therefore should not be censured for the imperfections of our unfortunate horticultural exhibit.

6. That many persons in whom we have confidence, especially editors in our own County, fellow farmers in our own State, writers for agricultural publications, and others have visited the Louisiana Purchase Exposition and have reported the Pennsylvanian Agricultural Exhibit as a creditable display for the money expended, comparing favorably with other Exhibits near it which cost several times as much money; our own display of tobacco and wool being second to those of no other States.

That the few unprejudiced persons who have reported adversely on the Agricultural Exhibit from our State have confused it with the Horticultural Exhibit, which was poor because not undertaken until during the winter; and this unfortunate confusion had lead to unjust condemnation of our excellent Agricultural Exhibit and to inexcusable censure of the persons who prepared the latter.

7. That the malicious statement that "Colonel Woodward was discharged and another person was put in his place to save the State from further disgrace," is absolutely and positively false. We find that Col. Woodward was engaged to collect, prepare and install the Exhibit, and from the beginning it was planned and arranged that his duties were to be completed and his connection with the Exposition Commission was to come to an end on or about the first of May, 1904. Further, we find that the Attendant in Charge was not designed to supplant Col. Woodward, but to supplement the labors of the latter. We thus learn that the latter was not "discharged," as his work was acceptably and creditably performed, and being duly finished, no successor to him was appointed.

8. Upon investigation, we learn that the allegation of automobile hire at twenty-five dollars per day does not justly apply to any one connected with the Agricultural Exhibit from Pennsylvania, and therefore is insinuating and misleading.

9. That the charges that "apples and other fruits were allowed to rot while on display and withered and dying leaves were permitted to litter the floor," are false as applied to our Agricultural Exhibit, as no fruits not leaves (excepting tobacco) were displayed in any part of this Exhibit at any time. That the published statements that the Pennsylvania Agricultural Exhibit has been closed are false, although they do apply to the Horticultural Exhibit, made another building, and these statements arise from the confusion of the two Exhibits, as mentioned above.

10. That Governor Pennypacker has properly investigated these charges and has promptly and satisfactorily replied to them to the effect that they are entirely ill-founded or are too greatly magnified, and therefore either absolutely false or seriously misleading. Our efficient Chief Executive has personally visited this Exhibit and agrees with other fair-minded persons who have seen it in reporting that it is a creditable representation of Pennsylvania's Agricultural products. The Governor of this Commonwealth has, therefore, acted in good faith, and has earned and received the continued confidence not only of the farmers, of which we are proud to claim him as one, but also of all other honest citizens.

Therefore be it Resolved:—That we as Centre County Farmers and as members of the Pennsylvania State Grange, interested in the welfare of all citizens of our State, and especially of our farmers, and desiring to do justice to all persons, do hereby congratulate our State upon the high quality of its Agricultural Exhibit at St. Louis, and express our confidence in the honor and integrity of our well-known and worthy neighbor, Col. John A. Woodward, of this County, whom we compliment upon the faithfulness of the performance of the arduous duties of his position.

We also desire to record our endorsement of Governor Pennypacker and our high appreciation of his many efforts in our behalf; our thanks to Col. Lambert and the Exposition Commission for efficient service and able representation of our State in the various Departments; and our condemnation of the daily paper which has voluntary misled the public, and our regrets that such false and misleading reports have been copied and circulated without adequated investigations by writers, and taken up and emphasized by some individuals for personal reasons, to the detriment and injury of the reputation of worthy citizens who have efficiently performed their duties, in whom we have confidence, and who should receive our commendation instead of censure.

Be it Further Resolved:—That copies of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, sent to Governor Pennypacker, Senator Penrose, Col. Jas. H. Lambert of the Exposition Commission, Col. Jno. A. Woodward who prepared the Pa. Agricultural Exhibit, to the local and county papers, to the North American, The Farmers' Friend and Grange, and to agricultural periodicals.

A Young Man Hires a Rig and Fails to Return it.

A young man about 25 years of age and giving his name as Frank Rock, of Lock Haven, hired a horse from Liveryman Kyler on Grove street, Lock Haven, Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock to drive to Salona, saying he would be back soon, but up to Thursday morning he had not returned.

Mr. Kyler has sent out inquiries to the surrounding towns, giving a description of the man and rig. Rock weighs about 140 pounds, is about 5 feet 6 inches in height and has dark mustache and hair. The horse was a dark brown mare, white forehead and has a heavy dark mane which lays on the left side; also has white hind feet. The buggy is an open one with red running gear.

Rock was reported as being at Millheim at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and as he is said to have come from that section is is expected to find him. An officer at Millheim was directed to make a search for the man and Mr. Kyler's horse and buggy.—Lock Haven Express.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Col. Bryan is reported to have a very severe sore throat. Natural result of trying to swallow the dose fixed up for him by Hill and Belmont.

The Democrats propose to make the campaign on the trusts and the tariff. Remember the Cleveland Administration's action on these subjects.

Judge Parker asks that no attack be made upon President Roosevelt's personality. The Judge has evidently been studying that personality to good advantage.

It should be remembered that Mr. Roosevelt has not asked Judge Parker or any one else to spare his personality or his record in this campaign. He is always ready to make the fight in the open.

We don't have much to say this week in regard to the county ticket owing to the pressure of other business but from this time on the county ticket will receive the greatest part of our editorial attention.

JUDGE PARKER will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that he will figure in a distinguished list of Americans that include such names as Greely, Seymore, Tilden, Hancock, Cleveland and Bryan.

THE word has gone forth that David B. Hill and William Jennings Bryan are both going to Indiana to make political speeches. It is merely a suggestion, but why not put them on the same platform and have them engage in a joint debate on the money question. Bryan says he has nothing to take back.

Saturday is the last day for paying state or county taxes if you want to vote at the November election. Do not neglect to attend to this duty in time. It is important that every Republican vote in Centre county is polled for the full ticket on November 8, therefore see to it that no vote is lost for failure to pay taxes.

JUDGE PARKER AND PENSIONS.

Judge Parker in his letter of acceptance, says that he will revoke the pension order of President Roosevelt but that he will use his influence with Congress to pass an old age pension bill. There is one great embarrassment to this proposed programme. His influence would not go far with a Democratic Congress in regard to pension legislation. The Democratic party has always been opposed to pension legislation, though it always declares in favor of liberal pensions in its platform. There are fourteen pension laws now on the statute books which constitute the pension code. These laws were all passed by Republican Congresses. Not one of them originated in a Democratic Congress. Some Northern Democrats voted for these Republican bills but the majority of Democratic members of Congress voted against them. The record has been kept. It shows that in the passage of these fourteen pension bills 648 Democrats voted against them and only 417 voted for them. On the other side 1,068 Republicans voted for the pension bills and none voted against them.

If Judge Parker is to use his influence in favor of an old age service pension law he will have to appeal to a Republican Congress. He might have some influence with a Democratic Congress in favor of free trade legislation or for a bill to give independence to the Philippines but whenhe came to recommendations in favor of an old age pension he would find the majority of his party opposed to his recommendation. The Democratic party in Congress is controlled by Southern men who are opposed to pensions for Union veterans. They represent people who did not fight for the Union but against it. They may accept the result of the civil war as final, but they do not love the old veterans who brought about that result and they are opposed to giving them pensions from the national treasury while the Confederates pensioned only

The Southern Democrats will applaud Judge Parker's declaration that he will revoke President Roosevelt's pension order. They will endorse his action revoking the order if he should be elected President and carry out his promise. When they have done that the Southern Democrats in Congress will let the matter rest right there. They will have succeeded in undoing some of the pension legislation of the Republican Party. The South now has two-thirds of the Democratic caucus of the House and they will continue to have a majority of the caucus if the Democrats secure control of the House. No pension bill can pass a Democratic Congress without first receiving the approval of the Democratic caucus, What Southern Democrat would dare introduce or vote for an old age pension for Union veterans? Would John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who will be speaker of a Democratic House? Let the old soldiers ask him.

The only hope of such a pension bill is in a Republican House, and if the old soldiers and their friends want to continue the present pension laws and regulations they should vote the straight Republican ticket from the head to the foot. They should vote to continue President Roosevelt and a Republican Congress. The pension laws are of Republican origin and the only way to continue them is by Republican administration both executive and legislative.

Homes Wanted.

The Catholic Home Bureau wishes to find homes in good Catholic families where orphan children may be adopted and brought up under the influence of a happy, moral home. Families wishing to adopt or receive a child of any age, under 12 years, are invited to correspond with the Catholic Home Bureau, 105 East 22nd St., N. Y. City. d-1wk

Never Ask Advise.

When you have a cough or cold don't ask what is good for it and get some medicine with little or no merit and perhaps dangerous. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar, the greatest throat and lung remedy, it cures coughs and colds quickly. C. M. Parrish.

MR. DAVIS' INCONSISTENCY.

The latest example of the wabbling of the Democratic party on public questions is furnished by the recent speech of its candidate for Vice-President, Mr. Davis, in which he said he favored a tariff that not only furnished revenue but provided protection to home industries. That is fine Republican doctrine and sounds strangely from a Democrat.

Some allowance must be made for Mr. Davis, however. He was talking to a West Virginia audience, and it is well known of course that West Virginia, from necessity and of bitter experience, is a protectionist State. Mr. Davis was afraid to stand up for the free trade doctrines of his party in that State.

His speech is fairly characteristic of the present attitude of his party, not only on the tariff question but an other public questions. The party is trying to straddle them. Following the example set by the party action on the gold question, when the convention went one way and the candidate went the other, the party is now splitting on the tariff.

The Southern and Western wings want free trade, as near as they can get it. To them the tariff is a robbery. The class to whom Mr. Davis talked know better and would not have free trade. But, which wing is to rule? How are the people to know whether they would have free trade or modified protection under Democratic rule?

If they want the protective tariff there is only one way to insure it and that is to help elect a Republican House of Representatives this fall.

Bureau of Animal Industry.

The Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has assigned one thousand dollars of the recent Congressional appropriation for experiments in animal breeding and feeding to the cooperative investigations with the Respiration Calorimeter now in progress at the Pennsylvania Station. Plans have been made for an investigation upon the influence of age and individuality upon the metabolism of cattle and two full-blood yearling steers, one an Aberdeen-Angus and one a Jersey, have been purchased for use in the investigation.

Careful records will be kept of the food consumed and the rate of growth of these animals. In addition, occasional digestion experiments will be made with them to determine the assimilability of the food and the actual production of lean meat, while each winter there will be made, with the aid of the Respiration Calorimeter, scientifically accurate determinations of the actual gains of lean meat and fat respectively. It is expected to continue the experiment until the animals are mature. In this way, it is hoped to secure more exact knowledge as to the actual points of difference in the feeding qualities of the dairy and beef types of cattle, while at the same time valuable data will be obtained as to the nature and economy of the growth made at different ages.

Bought Mountain Top.

Prof. Clarence Schenck, of Philadelphia, who has spent the past two summers with Chauncy DeLong at the home of the latter's father, J. I DeLong, of Blanchard, has purchased from Casper Peter, of Maidsville, the tract of land situated on the top of the mountain north of that place and known as the James David place. The consideration was $800. Prof Schenck is very fond of Central Pennsylvania and greatly admired the David place, which he saw during a day spent in the woods last month. He proposes to erect a handsome stone house and other out buildings, raise stock and spend his summers on top of the Alleghenies, truly an ideal spot. He is with the Steinway Piano Company's branch in Philadelphia, and plays the pipe organ in one of the large churches of that city.

Special Rates and Trains.

Special excursion rates over all railroads. Special trains over the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad from Bellefonte to Coburn leaving Bellefonte at 7:00 o'clock p. m., Thursday and Friday, October 6th and 7th. The Bellefonte Central will also run a return train to State College each day after the races.

"Brack" Powell Arrested.

"Brack" Powell arrived in Bellefonte Monday evening and shortly after a telegram reached here from Williamsport ordering his arrest. Detective Rightnour performed the work, and Mr. "Brack" was taken back to Williamsport Tuesday afternoon.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4, 1904.

Even if Judge Parker were as bright a man as President Roosevelt, it would take him twenty years to learn as much about public affairs, as the President knows. Legislature at twenty-one years of age then Civil Service Commissioner, Police Commissioner, Secretary of the Navy, officer in the Army in a victorious war, Governor of New York, Presiding Officer of the U. S. Senate; and President of the United States. To take a man from even so exalted a place as the Supreme Bench of his state and place him in the executive office of the greatest modern people is too hazardous a wrench both for the man and the country Cleveland with his better preparation and experience as Mayor and Governor was clumsy and half paralyzed, and he left the Presidency worse hated (and is to this day) by his own party than the opposition.

It is well within the truth to say that Theodore Roosevelt came to the office better equipped for the duties of the Presidency than any predecessor. His thought, his writings and his public life were as fortuitous a preparation as if he had been specially educated for the Presidency. But when we add to his unique preparation, his remarkable manly vigor, undulled by age; an appetite and capacity for work equal to that of Gladstone, with irrepressible zeal for the purification and improvement of the public service, we have an ideal seldom realized in the history of nations.

At a most critical period of our history, we had in the presidential chair a conservative, timid, old man. His lack of strenuousness cost the country untold blood and treasure. We are on the verge of another period, perhaps not less critical. New and perilous questions are clamoring for solution. Happily the mental, moral and physical antithesis of James Buchanan is in the White House. Let us hold him there.

The President has no lack of business. He is receiving delegations of all sorts of people from all parts of the world; entertaining notable personages, writing letters, and hunting down alleged forgeries of his sentiments. Quite a large delegation of French artisans, sent by their government to the St. Louis Exhibition, have been made welcome at the White House. The President has expressed much satisfaction over the outcome of a vexatious little incident which was causing some annoyance. It was supposed that the President's name had been forged to a letter which he never wrote, and which was being circulated among the miners in Colorado. It appears that it was in reality an extract from what was called an "humorous editorial" in a New York evening paper, which is anything but friendly to the Administration. The western press was imposed upon and the sequel shows how hard pressed some news purveyors are for a sensation. All sorts of wild cat rumors are afloat in the political atmosphere regarding the amount of money called for and actually contributed to carry on the campaign. But as fast as one rumor starts it is flatly contradicted, and another set afloat. The Republican managers are content with the outlook.

The President held a Cabinet Conference Monday. Four members of his official household were present. They were Secretaries Taft, Shaw, Hitchcock and Attorney General Moody. The session continued for about two hours but the Cabinet ministers coming out, gave assurances that no question of serious import has been considered. Some time was devoted to talk about the political situation. Three members, Taft, Shaw and Moody, are expecting to engage actively in the campaign from now until November 6. There was absent one member who will probably never again engage in any campaign. The Postmaster General is lying, it is thought, at the point of death at the Arlington Hotel, his ailment—heart failure—being very similar to that of his friend and patron, Senator Hanna.

REFORM BEFORE CONGRESS.

Object, Past Success, and Future Plans of the Reform Bureau Described by Rev. O. R. Miller, Its Field Secretary.

Sunday morning at the Presbyterian Church and last evening at the M. E. Church, Rev. O. R. Miller of Washington, D. C. gave an address on "Good Tidings from the National Capital" in which he told of the object, its success and future plans of the Reform Bureau of which he is field secretary, and of which Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts is superintendent. He said that the Reform Bureau is a Christian organization, non-sectarian and nonpartisan, whose primary object is to secure the passage by Congress of important and much-needed legislation along all line of moral reform, such as temperance, Sabbath observance, stricter divorce laws, anti-gambling, anti-polygamy, etc., and also to defeat bad legislation affecting the moral welfare of our country.

He mentioned eight such measures passed by congress during the past ten years which were drawn up by the Reform Bureau and introduced at its request and under the Reform Bureau's leadership pushed through to final success. Those measures were:

1. The bill so long desired by Rev. Dr. John G. Patton to stop the shipping of liquor, opium and firearms by American traders to the New Hebrides Islands.

2. The bill to close by contract the gates of the St. Louis fair on Sunday.

3. The bill to suppress liquor selling in all immigrant stations of our country.

4. The new divorce law for the District of Columbia, limiting divorces to one cause only—that which Christ allows.

5. The bill to break up the "divorce colonies" in the territories, especially in Oklahoma, by requiring a 12 months' residence there before one can get a divorce.

6. The Johnson anti-canteen law to drive the saloon from our army camps.

7. The bill to increase the penalty for the seduction of girls under 21 in the District of Columbia.

8. The Senate resolution favoring an international treaty to suppress rum and opium selling to all the uncivilized races of the world.

Mr. Miller mentioned several other important reform measures which the Reform bureau is now pressing before Congress. He also said the Reform Bureau would try to secure the passage of a state local option law before the coming session of the Pennsylvania legislature, and the Reform Bureau would oppose any attempt to repeal the Pennsylvania Sabbath law.

At 3:30 p. m. Mr. Miller spoke at Petrikin Hall on "Traps for the Young and How to Smash them," in which he described the most common evils which are traps to ensnare and destroy the young, such as cigarettes, bad literature, gambling, Sabbath desecration, night street roaming and the saloon.

Mr. Miller spoke at C. E. meeting of the Presbyterian church and at the Epworth League meeting on "Personal Work for Souls."

OUTLOOK FOR TROUT FAVORABLE.

Plans Laid by Fish Department to Fully Stock the State Streams.

Fish Commissioner Meehan is making extensive plans for replenishing the supply of brook trout, which fish were gradually disappearing from the waters of the state and in many streams had become almost extinct.

At the Bellefonte hatchery he has reserved 50,000 fry for breeding purposes next year, 75,000 have been reserved at the Corry station and 50,000 have been sent to the Wayne county hatchery making a total of 175,000 fry. This number is more than seven times the number of matured breeders now in the Bellefonte and Corry stations and those at Bellefonte are more than double the entire stock of breeders which were reserved in any two hatcheries in previous years. Every female in the number reserved will produce about 300 eggs.

There will not be many more fry for next spring than were distributed this year, the number being about 6,000,000. No great increase in breeders has been experienced this year and the little increase of last year which was met by the gift of several million eggs from the Penn Trout Co., the Bloomingrove Park Association and others cannot be expected during the coming season.

After next year, if his plans materialize, he will be able to properly stock the streams of the state with fry and trout, which recently had become a luxury, will again be found in numbers in streams wherein they can thrive.

Huntingdon & Clearfield Telephone Connections.

The Huntingdon & Clearfield Telephone Co. on Saturday completed their new line to Gillintown, where connection was made with the United Telephone Co. This will give the patrons of the former company connection, over two pair of wires, with Bellefonte, Lock Haven, Williamsport, Tyrone, Altoona and intervening points, a service that will be very greatly appreciated.

OCTOBER WEATHER.

Rev. Hicks Predicts Storms as Well as Much Pleasant Weather.

Rev. Irl Hicks, the weather prophet, says the effect of the autumnal equinox will last up to the middle of October, in diminishing degrees. The storm period that is in progress at the close of September will be felt the first two days of this month in the eastern parts of the country. On and touching the 4th and 5th look for return of higher temperature, falling barometer and more falling weather.

The first regular storm period proper for October is central on the 11th and extends from the 8th to the 12th. The moon being in perigee on the 7th and in the celestial equator and new on the 8th, except very prompt developments in the form of a falling barometer, change to quite warm, and followed by rain wind and thunder storms as early in the period as the 8th and 9th. Later in the period these storms will spread to the east, and along with the rising barometer behind the storm, an early touch of boreal weather will come out of the northwest. Within 48 hours of noon on the 8th, seismic disturbances in many parts of the earth need not cause surprise.

The next storm period will be central on the 16th, 17th and 18th. This will bring on a disturbed weather condition that will run most probably into the regular storm period following. From about the 21st to the 24th general and active atumnal storms may be expected. A very depressed barometer will be advanced from the west attended by storms, first of rain and probably thunder, followed by early sports of snow and sleet. On and about this date will also be another period when earthquake shivers will be reported from different points of the globe.

The last period of disturbance in October, blending with the Mercury equinox is central on the 27th and 28th. At this time look for a reaction to warmer, followed by falling barometer, the return of hail and thick cloudiness and mist, amounting to sleet in many sections northward. The month will go out with antistorm areas spending gradually eastward from the west-north-west causing general change to much cooler. Much pleasant and open weather will lie between the perturbed periods.

ANTI CIGARETTE CRUSADE.

Rev. O. R. Miller Visits the Public Schools and Warns the boys Against Cigarettes.

Tuesday afternoon Rev. O. R. Miller, Field Secretary of the Reform Bureau, of Washington, D. C., visited the various schools and spoke on the evils of cigarettes. In some of the buildings the children in three and four rooms were brought together and Mr. Miller talked about 15 minutes He spoke five times. He presented the evils of cigarettes in such a striking and interesting manner that the children listened with close attention to all he said, and doubtless his address will be productive of great good in warning the boys against the use of cigarettes.

In discussing the evils of cigarettes he gave many facts to show that a boy who uses cigarettes has a very small chance of success in life. The cigarette weakens the heart. The United States government about four years ago when enlisting soldiers for service in the Spanish-American war and for service in the Philippines, found that most of the young men who were rejected were the victims of the cigarette habit. Not one young man in ten who was a habitual user of cigarettes had a sound heart; hence tens of thousands of the young men of the United States failed to pass a satisfactory medical examination, and were rejected because of the use of cigarettes. Every one of the States has passed restrictive laws against the sale of cigarettes—most of them forbidding the sale of cigarettes to boys under sixteen years of age; and three states have absolutely prohibited the manufacture and sale of cigarettes to anybody and every state and province ought to do so. The great business firms of the world are forbidding their employees to use cigarettes as they make a boy sleepy, dopy and incapable of performing the best service.

Mr. Isaac Underwood accompanied Mr. Miller in his tour to the various schools. It will be remembered that Rev. Mr. Miller spoke at the Presbyterian, and Methodist churches last Sunday.

Expelled from School.

The Bellefonte School board this week expelled from school George Jackson, the young colored boy, who was soundly whipped by Prof. Yearick. He is expelled for incorrigibility and general misbehavior.

It will be remembered that Prof. Yearick, who is a teacher at the High School, was arrested by the boy's parents for whipping the boy but was acquitted before Squire Keichline who gave young Jackson a sound lecturing which it is hoped will be productive of some good.

Prof. Yearick's course and that of the school board will be upheld by every right thinking person.

Rev. Jack Hartsock of Kansas was seen in town this week.

HUYETTVILLE.

The first and upermost in our thoughts tonight is who can be the Reprobate that has been keeping our little village in dread for one week and at last got his end accomplished. Little is the man that did it and by all appearances some one did it. Last Saturday aweek ago the store house of McNitt Bro., & Co. was fired but it being Saturday night the people still were up and by hard labor we got it out so on last Friday night by the people retiring earlier the end was accomplished between 12 and 1 o'clock. Mr. Rickert who lives just across the street was awakened by the cracking and confusion of the fire but too late to put it out by the time he gave the alarm the whole building was ablaze the only thing we could do was to save the dwelling houses. We must give credit to Mr. Crape our worthy engineer on the dinkey for being the means of saving our town. Mr. Crape run his engine through the flames and smoke to get to us where we could get water to keep the roof and sides wet of our houses.

Mrs. B. F. Rickert left Huyettville on a visit to her parents and friends near Colyer last week.

McNitt Bros & Co. are looking after the comfort of their employes by siding up their houses making them look better an warmer for the winter.

Mrs. Robert Harnish has again rallied from the effects of the fire last Friday night.

CENTRE HALL.

The derrick for drilling for oil or gas is about completed and the machinery will be put in place in a few days when a start will be made for China. It is located on the George Emerick farm just below the borough. When we strike oil on this side of the mountain and the lime stone quarries on the other side begin to operate times will be lively and the twin vilages of Centre Hall and Pleasant Gap will no doubt be connected by a monorail trolley.

The Centre Hall evaporating plant began operations a few day ago.

Mr. Bell, of the Victor Bath Co, of New York, is rusticating a few weeks in this place for his health.

The Luse cider press is running to beat the band. Last Tuesday the place was crowded with wagons loaded with apples and barrels from 4 o'clock in the morning till late in the day.

Plumbers are putting steam heat in Dr. Alexander's house. Mr. Noll, of Pleasant Gap, is doing the inside painting. Alf. Osman is siding the new addition with brick; Hagen brothers are doing the carpenter work; and Dan Slager the plastering.

MOSHANNON.

Mrs. F. F. Lucas, of Jersey Shore, visited at the home of Jas. Lucas.

D. B. Fleming and family, of Jersey Shore visited at the homes of Rush Quick and M. J. Bowes last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shangraw visited friends in Williamsport last week.

A "taffy pulling" was held at the home of T. D, Weavers in honor of his son Harry's twenty-second birthday. All reported a pleasant time.

Mr. C. S. Beaver, (assistant superintendent of the railway service) called at the office, and at the home of T. D. Weaver, P. M., last week.

T. D. Weaver attended Presbytery at Curwensville this week.

George B. Simler Sr.

George B. Simler, Sr., one of the oldest native citizens of Philipsburg died at his home in that city on Sunday afternoon of a complication of heart, stomach and kidney affections.

In speaking of his death the Philipsburg Journal says:

The deceased was a native of Philipsburg, having been born here on August 2, 1820, when our town was virtually a "howling wilderness," with a very limited population. His father was Charles Simler, who was a son of John Henry Simler, one of the original settlers. The subject of this sketch when a boy went to Philadelphia, where he married Miss Amanda Carpenter. With his young wife he came to Philipsburg, tarried in his native town perhaps three or four years, and then went back to Philadelphia. He remained there six or seven years, serving on the police force, when he returned to Philipsburg and has ever since made this place his home. He was a carpenter by trade, and as a result of his industry, frugality and wisdom in making investments, accumulated considerable property and has been able to spend the closing years of his life in comparative ease and comfort.

No resident of Philipsburg has been held in higher respect. He has on different occasions filled places of public trust in the borough, such as Burgess, president of the Council, etc, He was one of the oldest Odd Fellows in Philipsburg. He joined the Philanthropic Lodge, No. 15, in the city of Philadelphia, on October 13, 1846, and has ever since remained an honored member of the same, having the highest standing at the time of his death.

Besides his wife he is survived by four sons and two daughters, viz: Harry, Geo. B., William and Jacob, and Mrs. W. H. Crownover and Mrs. Albert Jackson, all of this city, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret A. Adams, also of this place.

The funeral took place from the family residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Work now in Progress Karthaus Brick Plant.

Work on the foundation walls of the new fire brick plant of the Karthaus Fire Brick company at Karthaus is progressing and it is proposed to push the erection of the buildings as rapidly as possible. The company owns several hundred acres of fire clay and coal lands and is leasing more clay land so as to be amply supplied with all the raw material needed for an extensive business The company is wisely looking to the future and the projectors feel confident that they have an excellent quality of clay and coal. Having the fuel within easy reach on its own land will be a big saving and as the clay is only a short distance from where the plant is to be erected the expense of conveying the raw material will be comparatively small.

We understand that there is still some stock to be disposed of out of the $150,000 capital stock of the company.

Nittany Furnace Records.

The Nittany furnace produced, in September, 3378 tons of pig iron, which is 197 tons more than was ever produced in one month since the furnace was built.

The best daily average output for one month, heretofore, was 102 & 6-10 tons. The daily average during September was 112 & 6-10 tons, or 10 tons more than ever before.

The best previous output for a single day's run was 116 tons. This was surpassed ten times during September, by the following records:

September 6	117 tons.
" 13	120 "

Notice to Voters.

October 8 is the last day for paying county and state taxes to entitle you to vote at the November election. Let every Republican attend to this important duty before the 8th inst.

"More haste, less speed," and "hasten slowly," are proverbs born of experience that some things can't be hurried without loss and waste. That is specially true of eating. The railway lunch habit, "five minutes for refreshments," is a habit most disastrous to the health.

You may hurry your eating. You can,t hurry your digestion, and the neglect to allow proper time for this important function is the beginning of sorrows to many a busy man. When the tongue is foul, the head aches, when they are sour or bitter risings, undue fullness after eating hot flushes, irritability, nervousness, irresolution, cold extremities, and other annoying symptoms, be sure the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition have "broken down." Nothing will re-establish them in active healthy operation so quickly as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves, purifies the blood, and builds up the body. It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol or other intoxicant.

Given away. Dr. Pierce's great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 31 stamps for cloth binding, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Amusements at the Fair.

The amusement features at the great Centre County Fair on October 4, 5, 6, & 7, will be of high class, moral, refined, and entertaining. At great expense the management has secured the following special feature attractions that will be exhibited each day of the fair without an extra cent of charge to the thousands of spectators.

"Chicot," the monkey that actually loops the loop on a bicycle.

Prof. Drako's troupe of performing sheep and dogs.

The Glenn Bros., the wonderful trick house acrobats.

Caprice R. Lewis, the queen of the high trapeze.

The Barlous, the ludicious clown acrobats in their amazing aerial feat on the break-a-way ladders.

All of these attractions have been great circus features and constitute an entertainment equal in interest to many you have paid double the price to see under canvas. And they will all be free at the Great Centre County Fair this year.

PARKER'S BAD BREAK

His Attitude On Pension Issue Will Cost Him Many Votes.

KEYSTONE VETERANS AROUSED

[Special Correspondence.]
Harrisburg, Sept. 27.

Judge Parker's letter of acceptance, like his speech to the committee of the Democratic convention, fell very flat. It did not arouse enthusiasm in his own party, and among Republicans it was accepted as another evidence of his unfitness for the presidency. The Democratic candidate for president presents no new issues, and he has failed to favorably impress the people on anything he has to say on any subject.

In Pennsylvania, where there are so many veterans of the civil war and so many sons of veterans and widows of old soldiers, the attitude of the Democratic candidate on the pension issue will cost him thousands of votes.

Parker and his party declare that "the protective tariff is robbery," and would let down the bars to foreign importations at the expense of American manufactured products and would thus deplete the national treasury, as well as close the American manufacturing plants. They thus drive the workingmen away from them.

Parker fails to take a positive stand on many of the great issues and leaves the voters in doubt as to what he would do on questions of grave import to the American people.

Roosevelt has attracted the young men to him by his candor and patriotism.

Roosevelt, in his letter of acceptance, spoke for himself and his party, and there was no uncertainty nor timidity nor a shadow of evasion in a single sentence of his letter. "A party fit to govern," he said, "must have convictions," and he left no opportunity for any one to deny that he has both convictions and the courage to maintain them. Whether men agree with him or not, they cannot fail to grasp his meaning, and cannot accuse him of shuffling or equivocation.

Active Republicans from different counties of the state who were in attendance at the meeting of the Republican state committee and the state convention of the League of Clubs last week report that there is an unusually healthy spirit shown in the party organization of Pennsylvania.

It is noticed that there are more young men taking a hand in the affairs of the party than heretofore, and that they are destined to exercise a more potential influence in the organization than ever before.

The visits of Vice Presidential Candidate Fairbanks, Senator Foraker and other speakers of national reputation to this state have been productive of much good. Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the Republican state committee, who has been in active touch with the organization for many years, is quoted as saying that he does not recall a time when so many young men figured so conspicuously in the party organization.

Senator Foraker seems to have struck a popular chord with his speech at the State League convention. This was delivered at so late an hour that it was not given publicity in the newspapers, but a few quotations from it will show that the distinguished senator from the Buckeye state has lost none of his originality or his fighting spirit.

Here are a few of his clever hits at the Democrats:

Judge Parker's famous telegram says the gold standard is irrevocably established. It was irrevocably established eight years ago, when McKinley was elected. As usual, the Democrats are eight years late in finding out the truths which the Republicans always uphold.

Democrats are never happy unless they are quoting from Thomas Jefferson and the constitution. And no two of them ever seem to agree on either.

There is a good reason for this disposition to quote from Jefferson and Jackson. It is because no Democrat since them can be safely quoted by a Democrat who wishes to go before the country on his quotation.

Bryan put Jefferson hard at work on behalf of Aguinaldo, but Judge Parker brings him farther up to date by using him to prove something on the Colorado dynamiters. If the Democrats don't let Jefferson alone, they will destroy all that gentleman's distinguished record.

Parker, instead of at once stopping protection, which his platform says is robbery, would strangle it gradually.

The Democrats say Roosevelt is a dangerous man. Well, he is, to them.

They say he is a war lord, and carries a big stick. He has been president for three years, and instead of getting us into war, he kept us out of it.

They say he is quick on the trigger. He is, but he hits the bull's eye every time. He goes ahead and does things while some Democrat is looking in the constitution to see if it is possible.

The Philippines are merely a place where our navy can hang up its hat and stay over night in case of a foreign war. We don't want to have to dismantle our warships in a foreign port, like Russia has had to do with the Lena at San Francisco.

Senator Foraker was always a favorite with the young Republicans of Pennsylvania. He made many new friends on his recent visit to this state.

HAVE MONEY TO BURN

August Belmont Backs a Syndicate to Elect Democratic Congressmen.

GOES OVER COL. GUFFEY'S HEAD

Senator Penrose, the State Chairman, Sends a Note of Warning to the Republican County Chairmen to Be Alert.

[Special Correspondence.]
Philadelphia, Sept. 27.

Revelations of the last few days regarding the details of a scheme of the Democrats to capture at least five additional congressional districts in Pennsylvania have had the effect of spurring the Republicans on to increased activity.

It was first discovered through private sources of information in New York that the Democratic national committee had decided to make a desperate move in this state to further their plans to get control of the next House of Representatives in Washington. They had reports from doubtful districts in other states which showed that unless they made gains in Republican strongholds like Pennsylvania they could not expect to win the next house.

It was then decided that Pennsylvania must contribute at least eight Democratic members of the next House, and in order to make this possible an arrangement was entered into with a number of Democrats who are not in sympathy with the Guffey leadership of the Democracy in this state whereby an immense sum of money was to be placed at their disposal to use as they might see proper. This money was to cover eight districts, including five now represented by Republicans.

Former Congressman James Kerr, of Clearfield, was picked out as the best man to take hold of this project. As a former chairman of the Democratic state committee Kerr is familiar with the active Democrats of the various counties and the national committee relies upon him to perfect an organization in each of these districts, which will make the election of the Democratic nominees for Congress possible. August Belmont is reputed to be the financial backer of the enterprise with the treasury of the Democratic national committee to be drawn upon for additional funds as occasion may require.

The districts which the Democrats hope to carry besides those which they now have are the 10th, Lackawanna; 11th, Luzerne; 12th, Schuylkill; 17th, Huntingdon, Fulton, Juniata, Mifflin, Perry, Snyder, Union, and the 20th, York and Adams. All of these districts are now represented by Republicans.

With but a majority of 30 in the present house of representatives, it will be seen that the Republican party cannot afford to lose Republican districts in Pennsylvania. When it is known that as high as $50,000 of Democratic money will be put into some of these districts to help out the candidates for congress, it will be seen that there is grave danger in this situation.

Chairman Penrose, of the Republican state committee, as soon as he learned of the plans of the national Democratic leaders regarding Pennsylvania, immediately sent a note of warning all along the Republican lines.

In a letter addressed to the chairmen of the Republican county committees this week, he said:

"The opponents of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, realizing that it will be time and labor lost to campaign in behalf of their national ticket, will, it is stated by the chairman of the Democratic national committee, concentrate their efforts in the congressional, senatorial and legislative districts, in the hope of winning here and there, perhaps, a representative in congress or member of the general assembly at Harrisburg.

"It is of the greatest importance that their efforts in these directions should be met promptly and energetically.

"The loss of a single congressman from Pennsylvania may place the house of representatives at Washington in jeopardy, and thereby greatly embarrass the business interests of the country, in which Pennsylvania has so great a share.

"The Republican nominees for the state senate and house of representatives should also be loyally and energetically supported, particulary in view of the fact that the legislature which assembles at Harrisburg in January, 1905, will be called upon to elect a United States senator for the term of six years from the 4th of March next.

"The speaker of the house of representatives at Washington or Harrisburg might be lost or won by a single vote, therefore, I cannot too emphatically impress upon you the importance of making the organization in your county so thorough that every Republican vote can be gotten to the polls in November.

"The only thing we have to combat this year is the idea in every Republican mind that the state will give an enormous majority for Roosevelt, and, therefore, his individual vote will not be needed; and it is this idea that illuminates the Democratic mind with the thought that Republicans can be caught napping, in which event they hope to elect additional representatives in congress or in the general assembly, or perhaps reduce the Republican majority in certain localities.

WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY

Society of the Huntingdon Presbytery.

MET IN BELLEFONTE

In the Presbyterian Chapel Wednesday and Thursday of last Week--Large Attendance of Delegates,

A REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS.

The 1st regular meeting of the 21st annual convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Society opened at 2 p. m., on Wednesday in the Presbyterian chapel with devotional exercises conducted by the President, who after the singing of a hymn read Phil. 2nd chapter, with earnest comments and offered a prayer.

Mrs. M. H. Wilson, of Bellefonte, welcomed the delegates with cordial greetings and Mrs. Storer responded. A letter from Mrs. D. R. James, President of the Woman's Board, was read by Mrs. John Smith, of Clearfield.

A letter was read from Miss Neilson, our missionary in Mt. Pleasant, Utah. Both letters were intensely interesting and inspiring.

Miss Roseberry, a member of the Society of Kings Daughters, of Clearfield, read a beautiful poem. Mrs. J. M. Closkey, of Braddock, Synodical Secretary for young people, was introduced and gave a few words of greeting. Mrs. J. C. Barr gave her report in the work among the foreigners, showing that much has been done, but it is a great work and funds are greatly needed to carry it on.

Rev. F. Novak and Mrs. Novak were then introduced and Mr. Novak spoke earnestly of his work.

Mrs. Powell, of Clearfield, sang a beautiful solo entitled "A Little Talk With Jesus," after which the roll was called and a gratifying number responded. After having the Executive Committee report, convention closed the afternoon's session by the singing of "More Love Oh Christ to Thee."

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

At Wednesday evenings meeting Rev. William Laurie D. D. LL. D., presided. After the singing of a hymn and an earnest prayer, Miss Helen Schaefler sang very beautifully "The Ninty and Nine." Dr. Laurie introduced Rev. Novak, Presbyterian Missionary among the foreign population who gave a brief account of his work. Rev. J. M. McJunkin D. D. of Oakdale, Pa. was then introduced, he spoke on the work and methods of Home Missions. 1st Presbyterial Sustentation, which the speaker called his "hobby." 2nd Synodical Sustentation, two of the largest Synods are self-supporting. The importance of the work among the foreigners was shown by a statement of the immense tide of emigration. 9,100,000 in 20 years over 760,000 of these are in Pennsylvania. Plans for reaching this vast body of foreigners were discussed.

Dr. Laurie spoke briefly of the work in Huntingdon Presbytery. A pretty solo was sung by Mr. John Hosterman entitled "When I have crossed the Bar," after which the offering was taken up and the evening services were brought to a close by Rev. McJunkin pronouncing the benediction.

THURSDAY MORNING

The Devotional Services were conducted by Mrs. Hughes, of Hollidaysburg. The Treasurers report was read by Mrs. Barr, it was most encouraging to hear how the good work was being carried on. 41 societies have increased their offerings the past year. "Look one step onward and secure that Step." Let the gifts be liberal, prompt and systematically consecrated. It would greatly help the Treasurers work if the gifts were made even dollars. After a few earnest words from the President the Doxology was sung and a prayer offered by Mrs. Barr.

The report of Mrs. Elder, Cor. Sec., was read. This report was particularly strong and helpful "Order is Heaven's First Law." Mrs. J. C. Barr reported the years work for the Sabbath School. While the number of schools sending gifts has not increased there has been a gratifying increase in the gifts and other encouraging features.

Mrs. Freeman read the report of the work for the Freedmen. This work is especially helpful because of the eagerness of the colored people for instruction.

The amount asked of this Presbytery or the coming year is $800 a slight advance on the gifts of this year but a less advance than was made over last year.

Mrs. Huff, Sec. of Literature, made an earnest plea for the diligent use of the magazines and leaflets.

Mrs. Fisher of Huntingdon read a Historical Paper "Looking Backward.

MEETING OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The Executive Committee met at the home of Miss Mira Humes on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Storer presiding, meeting opened by reading a portion of John 15th chapter and prayer by the President. Mrs. Storer announced that her duties at the Freedman's Bureau at Pittsburg are to exacting to allow her further services as President, she therefore tendered her resignation which was most regretfully accepted. Mrs. Wharton and Mrs. James Harris having sent in their resignations as vice presidents and having good reasons for their action, their requests were granted.

It was moved that each vice president be recommended to hold two district meetings during the year, the districts to be reorganized to facilitate the work.

It was suggested that this work would be most effective if the Home and Foreign vice presidents should work together. It was also suggested that the constitution adopted at the organization of the society had not been followed of late. Changes having been introduces without due action by the society. It was moved that the president appoint a committee to revise the constitution and report to this convention and send to the churches for approval. This motion being carried the president appointed Mrs. Elder, Mrs Freeman and Mrs. Barr to serve on the committee.

The selection of a president to fill out the present term was taken up and discussed, after which it was moved that Mrs. Alexander, of Hollidaysburg, be appointed, and Mrs. Rufus C. Elder, of Lewistown, as 1st vice president to succeed Mrs. Wharton.

The following committees were appointed by the president: Resolutions, Miss Lowrie, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Smith.

Place of next meeting, Mrs. Mathers, Miss Wirt and Miss Linda Tussey.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of Huntintingdon Presbytery held its first annual meeting Oct. 29 and 30, 1884, at Bellwood, having been organized the previous year in Altoona.

The record of these 21 years shows a steady increase and gives ample encouragement to press forward. Much has been done, much more can be done if all our women will but put their shoulders to the wheel. Among the list of faithful, honored officers who deserve special mention should be Mrs. J. A. Bailey who stood at the post and managed our finances faithfully and well for 20 years.

The cash contributed for these 21 years amounted to $4,389.03, and in boxes $13,851.51. Besides this, much has been contributed which has not been reported to the society. As the work grows, let our zeal and love grow also. The Lord has blessed us, let us bless Him out of our hearts and strive earnestly to grow to the full measure of our opportunities. Mrs. Storer read an invitation from the local W. C. T. U. for delegates interested in temperance work to visit Petrikin Hall, a beautiful solo sung by Mrs. Powell, of Clearfield, entitled "Moment by Moment," was very much appreciated.

Mrs. Closkey, Synodical Secretary of the Young Peoples' work made an earnest address urging that children and all young people be taught the need and blessedness of giving. With a knowledge of the work comes the desire to give.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Meeting opened at 2 o'clock with devotional exercises. The president called attention to the scripture verses on the program which were read in concert with appropriate comment.

Mrs. Hillis, Sec'y., of young people's work, gave her report showing an encouraging growth in interest.

Mrs. J. F. Closkey's address on training the young in Christian work was full of good things and should bear much fruit in greater zeal and more earnest purposes in this most important department. We allow the cares of this life to absorb us and deprive us of the blessing of service in higher things. As a specific to cure us of nervousness and timidity compare our small selfdenials and efforts with the far greater crosses and privations so bravely born by our missionaries.

The question hour conducted by Miss Morrow brought out many helpful suggestions. An interesting letter from Miss Katherine Smith, of New Jersey Academy, Utah, describing some of the fruits of the work among the Morman's was read by Mrs. Frank Reed. Mrs. Storer read a strong paper "Looking forward." 'The World for Christ!" With all our splendid organizations, the many open doors there is nothing we cannot accomplish with the prayer of faith and the willing hand, with another appeal for the freedmen and an urgent plea for the union of the two societies Mrs. Storer bade farewell to the society.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of Huntingdon Presbytery in this year when it has come of age, returns thanks to the greatest captain for all the way in which He has led us, for all these years of opportunity and service, and realizing our youth (only 21) we look to Him in the coming years to work in us to will and to do of His good pleasure.

Resolved, That we express our pleasure at meeting face to face Mr. and Mrs. Novak and assure them of our hearty sympathy and co-operation in their work. That we appreciate the letters received from the President of our board, Mrs. James and our missionary, Miss Neilson and thank them for the closer drawing of the ties between us

Resolved, That to Mrs. Dorris, the beloved first president of this society who has given to it so much of her strength, executive ability, rare wisdom and judgment as counsel in all these 21 years, We extend our loving sympathy in her sore bereavement, with the assurance of our earnest prayers for sustaining grace.

Resolved, That we assure our honored president, Mrs. Storer, of our deep regret at her resignation and our appreciation of her earnest labors for the welfare of this society and extension of its work. That we also regret the resignation of our faithful vice presidents, Mrs. Wharton and Mrs. Harris. That we especially thank Rev. J. McJunken and Mrs. Closkey for their forceful and inspiring addresses. Mrs. Fisher for the inspiration she has brought to us from the history of the past 21 years.

Resolved, That rejoicing in the cordial hospitality and loving welcome we have received from the members of this society and church to their homes in this beautiful town. We return thanks and carry away rich memories of christian love and courtesy as shown in the welcome at the train, the beautiful decorations in the chapel and church, the special music and countless other ways, and we pray the blessing of our heavenly Father will remain with them in their work and go with us to ours,

Respectfully submitted,
MISS LOWRY,
MRS. MILLER,
MRS. SMITH.

The committee on place of meeting recommended the acceptance of the invitation from the Broad Avenue church in Altoona. Both their reports having been adopted the minutes were read and approved and the meeting closed with the consecration hymn and the benediction.

What the Democrats Have Done and What They Might Have Done.

If Mr. Roosevelt is elected, as most Democrats think he will be, what is to be the political history of the country for the next few years? Are the people satisfied, or are there forces of discontent, seeking fundamental change? Judge Parker was nominated, to a considerable degree, from the desire to suppress radicalism, led by Bryan, and incendiarism, led by Hearst. The important part of the Democratic campaign ended when Judge Parker was nominated. The party was then put where the majority wanted it. It had cleared itself of sensationalism. It had put itself in condition to go through the motions of a respectable opposition. It had failed to accomplish what some men hoped—to select a candidate and outline issues which should bring eloquently before the people what abuses indisputably exist, without expressing violence and ignorance.—Collier's for September 24.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

FUNNY PICTURES.

A Drawing Game In Which Boys and Girls Will Find Many Laughs.

A drawing game which produces a lot of fun and a game, too, of which girls and boys will not quickly tire is played this way:

Three or more players sit around the table, and each has a pencil and a piece of paper folded into three. Then the player draws a picture of the head of a man, beast, bird or fish, carrying the lines of the neck over the first fold to guide the next person. The head is doubled over so as not to be seen, and the papers are passed on to the left hand neighbors. Then each player draws a body, also carrying the lines a little below the fold. It is then passed on as before, and the legs are drawn in the same way and folded over. Then they are opened and if well done cause a great deal of laughter. Of course each person does not know what his predecessor has drawn, and the body and legs are quite different and look like the drawing given herewith.

LINE ROSES.

The Surprise Helen Arranged For Marjorie, Who Was Sick.

"Here is a basket of fresh roses which we will take to poor, sick Marjorie," said papa to little Helen.

"Oh, how lovely!" said Helen. "But I know what Marjorie loves better than anything else. It's my Fluffy."

"But would you be willing to part with Fluffy?" asked papa.

"Of course I would, papa," replied Helen, "'cause I love Marjorie so much."

"Then let us surprise her," said papa. "We'll hide Fluffy under the roses in the basket."

Papa covered the basket very carefully. Fluffy had just had her dish of milk and was ready for a nap, so she slept all the way.

"Oh, how pretty they are!" exclaimed Marjorie as they placed the basket of roses beside her. In a moment the roses began to stir.

"They're alive! They're alive!" cried Marjorie, who was almost scared. The next moment Fluffy pushed her head up through the roses and said, "Me-ew!"

"Oh, you dear!" exclaimed Marjorie. And she hugged Fluffy and hugged her and hugged her.

"She is always to be your very own," said Helen, "and for always, 'cause you're sick."—Little Chronicle.

8 Cents

Eight cents a pound is what a young woman paid for twelve pounds of flesh.

She was thin and weak and paid one dollar for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, and by taking regular doses had gained twelve pounds in weight before the bottle was finished.

Eight cents a pound is cheap for such valuable material. Some pay more, some less, some get nothing for their money. You get your money's worth when you buy Scott's Emulsion.

We will send you a little free.

Love is sometimes a hard taskmaster. He drives women to tasks beyond their strength and lays heavy burdens on their shoulders. Love of husband, love of family, forces many a woman day by day to labor for the home when aching back and throbbing head make her utterly unfit for household duties.

Weak, nervous women who suffer from headache, backache, bearing-down pains and other consequences of womanly disease, can be completely cured by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"About two years ago I was taken sick and it seemed as if I had no nerves at all," writes Mrs. F. Woodbeck, of Delray, Mich. "Could not work an hour in the day without being tired out. I doctored first with one physician, then with another, but did not receive any benefit. One would say one thing and the next something else. I had almost given up when I thought your medicine might help me, so I wrote to you asking what to do. You advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so and could see a difference right away. I only took four bottles in all and felt better than I had in a long time. Can work all day now and not feel tired as I would in an hour before taking your treatment. I think it is the only medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

A UNIQUE RECORD.

NOT ANOTHER LIKE IT IN OUR BROAD REPUBLIC.

To give positive home testimony in every locality is of itself unanswerable proof of merit; but when we add to this the continued endorsement from people who testified years ago no evidence can be stronger. A Bellefonte citizen greatfully acknowledges the good received from Doan's Kidney Pills, and when time has tested the cure will find the same hearty endorsement, with added enthusiasm and continued praise. Cases of this kind are plentiful in the work of Doan's Kidney Pills, and such a record is unique in the annals of medicine.

J. Curtis Johnson, 365 E. Bishop St., says: "I think even more of Doan's Kidney Pills now than I did in 1897 when I made a statement for publication recommending them. I had been suffering at that time for more than a year with backache and lameness through the loins. At times I was so weak that I could not lift anything and if I stooped it was almost impossible for me to straighten up. When driving there was a steady aching over my kidney the whole time. I felt dull and tired and lacked ambition. Procuring Doan's Kidney Pills from F. P. Green's drug store I was soon cured of the whole combination of troubles and was cured very quickly. My wife has also used Doan's Kidney Pill for backache and was cured and invigorated generally as well. We both think very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and have been recommending them ever since I gave my former statement in 1897."

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—John J. Bower, Esq., is very ill at his home on East Linn street with pneumonia.

—There was no meeting of council Monday night owing to the fact that no quorum was present.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Brown are rejoicing over the arrival of a great big bouncing boy at their home.

—Lew Gettig sold his 3 year old colt to Lew Wallace, of Milesburg, this is one of the finest horses in Centre county.

—Linn McGinley Jr., the little fellow who had his hip fractured while jumping a wagon Monday morning is getting along nicely and no serious results are feared.

—Russell Beezer, a son of Joseph Beezer, while playing foot ball at the Catholic school grounds on Wednesday afternoon fell and broke his left leg.

—Rev. Andrew S. Carver, of Glen Rose, Texas, has accepted the call to preach in the Presbyterian church at Milesburg. He moved to Milesburg last week.

—Robert Cook, of Howard, has purchased from F. C. Smith a lot of ground situated near the New York Central station at Mill Hall, on which he proposes to erect a livery stable.

—Mrs. Nolan, widow of the late Jerry Nolan, moved her family Friday from her former residence on Willowbank street to the rooms formerly occupied by the Misses Snook over Meese's store.

—In front of the Republican headquarters in the Bush Arcade is a handsome transparency with pictures of Roosevelt and Fairbanks painted thereon. It is a very fine piece of work and is the product of Linn McGinley's skill as an artist.

—The real "Widow Brown," got drunk in Bellefonte on Monday and rested very comfortably in the lock-up until she sobered up. It is bad enough to see a man drunk on the streets but to see a woman in that condition it seems a great deal worse.

—Mr. Samuel Humes, oldest son of H. B. Humes, president of the Jersey Shore Bank, died very suddenly at his home in that place Saturday of pneumonia. He was 34 years of age and is survived by his wife and two children a boy and girl. The funeral took place Monday.

—This fall will be the greatest season for chestnuts in several years. The trees in the rural districts are groaning with their heavy weight of chestnut burs. The frost the last few mornings assisted much in the cracking the burs and another cold spell will open them sufficiently to make the harvest easy.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Gardner, son Harold, Mr. and Mrs Wm. Jenkins, daughter Dorothy and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jenkins and son Raymond, who have been camping the past ten days at Camp Constans near Roland, returned home on Wednesday morning after having a most enjoyable time.

—The Maryland Metropolis is conceded by everyone, excepting Baltimoreans, to be the slowest place on top of the earth, with the exception of Tombstone, New Mexico. But, slowness and everything considered, it has turned out the daintiest and sweetest bit of feminity that graces the stage today. She is Maida Snyder, and will be seen here in a few weeks as Mimi the famous dancer of the Folies Bergere, Baltimoreans take notice: Here is something of which you should feel proud.

—Two bloodhounds purchased by Cambria county after the Portage hold up have arrived from San Antonio, Tex. They are a couple of beauties of the low southern breed, weighing probably forty pounds each. Both are very intelligent looking. One is black and white mottled and tinted with brown, the other straight brown. Things are coming to a high pass when bloodhounds are necessary to run down criminals in this enlightened section of the country. But recent occurrences justifies the course of the authorities.

—The Peabody Institute at Baltimore, Md., have awarded an organ scholarship to Fred Weaver, of Bellefonte. There were ten contestants. A magnificent organ is being installed at the conservatory and the organ scholarship which was the first of its kind there was awarded to stimulate interest in that branch of music The scholarship includes 3 years instruction on the instrument and instruction in harmony. The young man left on Tuesday and the examination was held on Wednesday and he began his studies at once. Fred Weaver is the son of J. C. Weaver and has been organist in the Presbyterian church for the past year and half.

—Be sure and pay your taxes before Saturday.

—In the Patrick Clark property opposite the Big Spring a lot of household goods will be offered for sale Saturday Oct. 15, at 2 p. m. Those in search of bargains should not fail to attend.

—Postmaster General Henry C Payne died in Washington Tuesday night at 6:10 at his apartments in the Arlington Hotel. He was sixty years of age. He will be succeeded by George B Cortelyou, former secretary of commerce and now National Chairman.

—Robert Lett, who has achieved so pronounced a success as August Lump in Nixon & Zimmerman's elaborated production of the Strollers, which will be seen here shortly, was last year with the Savage forces in "The Sultan of Sulu." Lett is a Texan,—a wild and wooly ranger, hailing from Dallas.

—Judge Bell, of Blair county, at the opening of court Monday morning, called attention of the constables of the county as to their duty with regard to reporting to the court all bad roads in their respective bailiwicks, and stated that hereafter they will be held strictly accountable for any neglect of this duty.

—New boys are still entering the Academy from a distance. This week boys have entered the school from Maryland and Kansas, and others are expected. This surely will prove the banner year of the Academy and it is quite fitting that it should as this is the centennial year and next June it will be celebrated with splendid ceremonies.

—Mr. Moyer, of Milesburg, who is employed by the American Lime and Stone Company at their Armor Gap plant injured his right hand quite severely on Saturday. He was opening the iron door of a kiln when his hand caught in a chain connected with the heavy door and the flesh was torn off the inside and outside of his hand. It was a painful and serious wound but he is getting along very nicely now.

—Hunters should bear in mind that the fall hunting season does not open until October 15. and that before that time it is illegal to kill any wild turkeys, pheasants, quail. woodcock, squirrel, etc. The season was made late and short in order to give the game, which was so scarce, a chance to increase, and all persons found killing game before the opening of the season will be dealt with according to the severest measures of the law.

—May Bouton, a dashing brunette, who last year had the proud distinction of playing every female role in "Miss Bob White" at some time or other during the season, is this year the attractive Anna with Nixon & Zimmerman Opera Co's., elaborate production of "The Stroller's, which will be seen here shortly. Miss Bouton is a clever comedienne, with a remarkably sweet soprano voice and was seen during the summer opera season in Philadelphia as Javotte in "Ermine," Kitv Clover in "Princess Bonnie" and the Queen of Comic Opera in "The Belle of New York." Miss Bouton in private life is Mrs. Lester Brown.

—The Pennsylvania State College's registration of new students, about two hundred and fifty, represents almost every county in the state. This makes the total enrollment of the college about 700. President Geo. W. Atherton extended a hearty welcome to the men who were about to enter upon their college career. Exceptional advantage sare offered at this institution, free tuition and a choice of twenty-one courses of study. Although many lines of study are offered the students entering the institution, the majority take up work in the various lines of engineering—mining, mechanical, civil and electrical. The state of Pennsylvania, with her great natural resources has need of men of practical science to unearth and prepare for the markets these utilities, and her state institution is doing much to supply the demands for such men. The graduating class of 1904, numbering 72, all secured positions in their line of work and more positions were offered than the college could supply This, in itself, speaks well of the institution.

Big Sale of Coal Lands.

A big coal deal involving nearly $160,000 and 4,000 acres of coal land in the southern portion of Indiana county has just been closed by M. W. Saxman. of Latrobe, who bought the H. B. McIntire field in the Jacksonville district for $40 an acre. The tract lies in Young, Armstrong, Blacklick, Centre and Conemaugh townships and consists of the property of 41 farmers The Pennsylvania railroad is thought to be the real purchasers of the tract. The land is all contiguous to the West Penn division of the Pennsylvania system and for that company is easily accessible

Republican Rally.

There will be a rousing Republican Rally and Mass meeting held in the Court House, Bellefonte, this evening. Bands of music will be present and there will be a big parade.

Addresses will be made by Lincoln L. Eyre, Esq., of Philadelphia. and Hon. John H. Landis, of Lancaster. It will be a great night in Bellefonte.

Mrs. J. W. Coolidge and her daughter Grace of Scranton Pa. are visiting at the home of the former's sister Mrs. S. D. Ray on West Howard street.

Mrs. David Gates and son. Earle, of Loveville, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Gates, of East Lamb street. They will visit the County Fair while in town.

Sam Hart, of Harrisburg, is visiting his father, William Hart at the family home on East Bishop street. Mr. Hart holds a splendid position with the Pennsylvania Steel Company in the Capital city.

Harry E. Breon, of Axe Mann, was a pleasant caller at the Republican office while in town Saturday. He is teaching school now and besides teaches a number of pupils music. He is a musical composer of considerable ability and several of his compositions have been highly praised by musical critics.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

Large Crowds and Splendid Weather the Order of the Day.

The great Centre County Fair is in full progress as we go to press and a big crowd is in attendance. The fair weather which prevails is drawing the crowds from far and near. The exhibits this year are larger and better than usual and it promises to be the greatest fair this association has ever held.

In the main exhibition hall there is a fine display of fruit and agricultural products the results of the best efforts of Centre county farmers and housewives. Then there is a fine exhibit of fancy work which attracts wide attention.

The Pennsylvania State College has a fine exhibit this year showing the splendid work accomplished there. It is in charge of College students.

The poultry exhibit this year is the largest ever on the grounds and some specimens of poultry are to be seen in the new house just built on the grounds.

The cattle and live stock exhibit is also very creditable and shows that the farmers are beginning to take greater interest in the fair each year.

There were two races in progress this afternoon, the 2:17 trot and pace, purse $300, and the 2;25 trot and pace, purse $250,00. Quite a number of local horses are entered in these races.

The open air shows in front of the grand stand are of a high order.

A Hublersburg Man Weds Lamar Bride.

In the cosy Methodist church at Lamar at 10 o'clock Thursday morning Harry McCauley of Hublersburg and Miss Grace McClintick were married by Rev. Reeser of Salona. The wedding march was played by Miss Katherine Dornblazer. The church was filled with relatives and friends when the bridal couple entered with their attendants the Misses Tillie Bucher of Altoona and Ollie Pifer of Walker and Messrs. Jacob Bergestresser of Hublersburg and Victor Pifer of Lamar The words were soon said that bound the twain for life.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McClintick at Lamar and a sumptuous wedding breakfast served. There was a large number of out of town guests present, several of them being from this city. The bride is one of Clinton county's most estimable young ladies and kind and loving daughters and will be a model helpmate in her new relations in life.

POPULAR EMPLOYEES.

Many Candidates for Washington Tour--People are Interested.

The Popular Employees contest inaugurated by the Bellefonte Republican and the Daily News is attracting wide spread interest and quite a number of candidates have already entered the list. It is probable that many others will enter as quite a number of localities in the county are not represented and local pride should induce them to take up some popular employee in their locality and work the thing up for their favorite. Remember that it only takes a few new subscribers to either paper to give you enough votes to put your candidate on an equal footing with any in the field.

Some of the smaller towns have just as good a chance of winning as the larger ones. Remember Snow Shoe won the World's Fair Teachers contest from a Bellefonte candidate.

The vote this week is as follows:

BELLEFONTE.

ACADEMY DEFEATED.

Strong Williamsport Team Shuts them Out. 17 to 0.

On Saturday afternoon the first foot ball game of the season in Bellefonte was played at the Driving Park between the Bellefonte Academy and the Williamsport High school. A strong wind was blowing and the air was cold and crisp, a magnificent day for a game of this kind. A small crowd was there to witness the fun, and they fully expected the boys on the hill would have a regular walkover, but their minds were soon changed after the game began. The Lumber City boys were much heavier and out classed the Academy in nearly every point, although the Academy put up a good stiff fight and prevented their opponents from scoring in the second half. If our boys would have kept up the same stiff upper lip in the first half as they did in the second, the game would have been ours.

Gutilius, DuBarry and Weaver played fine ball for the Academy and did all in their power to win the game. The balance of the team did well, but an awful lot of good, solid, hard practice is what they need.

Crooks, Hogland, Himes and Braddock made the feature plays on the Williamsport side.

W. H. S.	Positions.	Academy.
Hill	Centre	Sheffler
Hogland	right guard	Miller
VanDusen	left guard	Stover
Meyers	right tackle	Stein
Dugan	left tackle	McLaughlin Wallace
Hartman	right end	Lane
Flock	left end	DuBarry
Himes
Davey	quarter back	Weaver
Crooks	right half	(Capt)Gutilius
Braddock	full back	Furrey

Touchdowns, Crooks, 1, Himes, 1, Braddock, 1, goals kicked Hogland 2, Umpire, Weaver, referee Bush, Time keepers, Hughes Lundy, line men Wallace, Flock. Time 20 and 15 minute halves. Score 17 to 0.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

Linn McGinley, Jr.. Meets With Serious Misfortune.

A very sad accident occurred Monday morning about 11:30 o'clock near the Bush House. Snyder Tate was driving down High street with his ice wagon and when on the High street bridge over Spring Creek, Linn McGinley, Jr.* aged 7 years jumped on the rear end of the wagon and in some manner missed his hold and fell between one of the rear wheels and the bed of the wagon. The driver did not hear the boys scream at first, but as soon as he did, the horses were stopped.

The boy was found to be so tightly wedged in between the wheel and the wagon bed that it was necessary to take the wheel off before the boy could be released from his dangerous position.

He was carried to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Linn McGinley on the corner of South Thomas and High streets.

The doctors in attendance say that the boy suffered a very severe fracture of the hip bone.

Setting A Good Example.

On Sunday evening something occurred in one of the churches in this town that can't help but be productive of great good. It is a well known fact, although deplored, that young men prefer the back seats when they attend church, but on Sunday evening in a certain church in this town, five young men voluntarily walked forward and occupied the front pew. Thirteen others, making eighteen in all followed their example and the sight was enough to inspire the minister and the entire congregation with renewed enthusiasm. Let us hope that they will keep it up and that others will follow their example in the future.

Bronchitis For Twenty Years.

Mrs. Minerva Smith, of Danville, Ill., writes: "I had bronchitis for twenty years and never got relief until I used Foley's Honey and Tar which is a sure cure."
